General Comment

Women need to have control over their reproductive health and allowing hospitals and charities to opt out due to their religious prejudices will only hurt the women who rely on those services. If you bow to the pressure from these religious groups, then many women will have no options when it comes to their health and these hard won legal protections will be meaningless. Please make sure that ALL organizations give women equal access to reproductive health services, no matter where they live or who runs the hospitals or health services in their area.
